VOL. XI. NO. 207. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1911 One Cent

BOULEVARD PROPOSED FROM PITTSBURG TO UNIONTOWN

Important Highway Projected in Sproul Road Bill

THE ROUTE OUTLINED

Assumed That it Will Strike the National Pike at Brownsville

In spite of our indifference and lack of effort as well as the same condition in the part of our neighbors affected we are likely to get the river boulevard for which the Mail has been agitating for some time. By the addition of 74 new routes to the original 203 of the Sproul main highway bill which has been reported favorably to the Senate, a route from Pittsburg to Uniontown by way of Charleroi is projected. Those in charge of the bill realized more fully the importance of this route than we did ourselves.

While the location of the projected river route is not exactly known it is reasonable to assume that it will connect the important towns along the river and strike the old National Pike at Brownsville. This passes through what is perhaps the most populous industrial and picturesque route in the State, and its importance can be realized at a glance of the territory to be traversed.

It is stated that the Sproul bill is slated to pass and becomes a law. The addition of the route from Pittsburg to Uniontown is a most important one, and if it stands will be of inestimable benefit to this community.

Many alterations will be made in the arrangement of the second floor in order to establish suitable quarters for the installation of the new common battery system which is to be of the latest Western Electric type. When the young man was an infant his parents separated, aond hewas taken by his mother to live with his grandparents. He graduated from the Warren High School and then started out to make his own way, finally landing in Donora, shortly after he had been married at Brownsville.

WANT BARS CLOSED ON HOLIDAY

Arguments for and Against Heard by Judge Taylor

DECISION COMING LATER

Before Judge J. F. Taylor yesterday was heard the argument upon the petition of the Ministerial Association of Monongahela, the G. A. R. of that place, and others to have the court make an order requiring licensed bars to keep closed in this county on the five legal holidays, viz: New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Thanksgivng Day and Christmas Day.

The argument was unusual from the fact that the court opened its doors and gave permission to laymen, not supposed to be learned in the law to present their side of the case. Rev. M. M. Allbeck, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church of Monongahela, chairman of the committee, of the Ministerial Association, was the spokeman for the committee. Captain James B. Gibson made a few remarks in behalf of the G. A. R.

Attorney W. K. Vance of the law firm of McIlvain, Vance and Gibson of Monongahela, appeared in behalf of the Monongahela liquor dealers and other dealers who are clients of the law firm. Attorney D.M. McCloskey of Charleroi appeared for the Charleroi and Donora hotel men and other dealers.

Two Yet to be Recovered From Ill-Fated Laughlin

ALSO DRAGGING RIVER

Work Continues Today Under Direction of Captain Warren Elsey

Strenuous efforts are being made today by a crew of men under the supervision of Captain Warren Elsey to recover the bodies of the man and the woman who are supposed to be still imprisoned in the sunken Harry A. Laughlin at Allenport. Recourse was taken to dynamiite yesterday and the upper deck of the boat was dynamited in an effort to locate the two bodies. This is being continued today, and the river is being dragged in the vicinity. If the bodies are not in the boat it is not thought they will ever be recovered, owing to the strong current.

It was not entirely due to the high wind that the boat was overturned Thursday night. Captain Thomas Cocain stated yesterday afternoon, in explaining the occurrence that he had taken a supply of coal at the tipple of the Vesta Coal company's mine and had turned the boat toward the middle to resume his way up the river with the empty barge the Laughlin had in tow. Owing to the heavy wind Captain Cocain gave a signal to the engineer in reverse the boat to avoid upsetting. The current was exceptionally strong and between it and the high gale of wind which at this juncture struck the boat it was capsized.

The two bodies not recovered are Raymond McFadden, the fireman, and Mrs. Mary Lawrence, the chambermaid. Miss Effie Hughes, whose body was recovered yesterday, was the sole support of her mother who lives at Point Marion. Mrs. Lawrence was a widow, and leaves two sons and five daughters.

The Laughlin now rests on its side about 50 feet from the shore near Vesta. Until yesterday it occupied a position directly upside down, but later turned. About 30 tons of coal were lost when the boat overturned. The most valuable articles are being removed from the wreckage by river men, and the boat will likely be raised, although it will not be put in active service again by the Jones and Laughlin company.

Fighting the Bill

All talk by the opponents of the State administration that the Public Utilities Commission bill that Governor Tener has caused to be drawn up and presented in the Legislature is a fake measure is dispelled by the attitude of the corporations affected. The far reaching provisions of the bill have resulted already in requests from a large number of corporations to be heard on the measure, and it is stated that the most notable array of corporation counsel that ever appeared on capitol hill will be on hand to object to some of the provisions of the bill. This clearly indicates that the measure has "teeth."

The measure is a necessity and should become a law. Gradually, in the review of the rights of man, the public is realizing that the people do not have to put up with "all the traffic will stand," on the arbitrary say-so of public corporations. A commission, like the proposed body, to which the people can appeal when they have a grievance, is a necessity, and other States have already created these bodies with power to act. Governor Tener's measure covers the situation most effectually, and every community will be benefitted by its provisions.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The story of the Scotchman who one time went aboard a British battleship and sent word to the captain below that one of the owners of the vessel wanted to see him, finds its counterpart in an old Civil War veteran out near Beallsville, who visited Washington, D. C. recently. The old fellow was recounting his experiences after his return to his neighbors around the store fire, how he had visited the National Museum, gone up in the Washington monument, looked over the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and the various other attractions of the National capital.

"Do they charge anything, John, for seeing those things?" asked a neighbor, who was deeply interested.

"No, by gum!" was the response, "them things down there belong to we'uns, and I was just looking over my share."

"Here's something I wish you would print," said J. D. Berryman of the department store of J. W. Berryman and Son. "If lots of young fellows I know would profit by this advice, they would arrive at the goal of success by safe and sure methods"

This is the item, clipped from a Youngstown, Ohio, paper:

"The Marion Star remarks that the reason why the mule continues to advance in value despite the advent of the bizz-wagon may be that he does his work faithfully and well and doesn't pretend to be above it. Many a fellow can study the case of the mule with profit to himself. There's too much of the disposition to be above the work one finds to do. The young man about to start out in the world to make his way shows only the one characteristic trait of the mule to kick, but none of the mule's patience to drag any kind of a load. The trouble is the wants to begin right up where his dad has climbed through long years of patient toil. He is not content to begin where opportunity offers and by patiently and persistently working and showing himself worthily advance step by step. These fellows who go up like a rocket usually come tumbling down like a stick.'"

THE TRUE TEST

Tried in Charleroi, it Has Stood the Test

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Charleroi. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

Mrs. Charles Bromwich, 714 Washington Avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "About two years ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease and suffered a great deal from pains in the small of my back I was also subject to headaches and a feeling of languor, and although I tried a number of remedies, I was not helped. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me and deciding to try them, I procured a box at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. In a few days after using this remedy, I felt a great deal better and before long a complete cure was effected. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement." Statement given September 3, 1907.

CURED PERMANENTLY.

On November 6, 1909, Mrs. Bromwich said: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as when I gave a public statement in their favor two years ago. The cure this remedy effected has been permanent."

Marvelous Antiseptic that Draws Glass, Wood and Needles from the Flesh

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in emergencies such as bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it kills the pain instantly. It's a medicine chest in itself—a little family physician that is ever in demand. 25c and 50c a jar at W. F. Henning's.

AMONG THE THEATRES

The Palace—Charleroi.

A production that was at once educational and thrilling was shown at the Palace Theatre this week. These were the scenes depicted during the two years explorations in the Antarctic by Dr. Charcot, the eminent French explorer. Wonderful pictures of the frozen region showed realistic views of this unknown region. Other strong features were "A Brother's Redemption," "The Warrant for Red Rube," "Jim the Mule Boy," "Love Under Difficulties," and others. A duet by Louis Brusa and John Evens, "Dear Old Ma," with special scenic and electrical effects, made a great hit.

The Grand—Pittsburg

Momentous vaudeville events are now occurring in quick succession at the Grand where Manager Harry Davis is booking shows unexampled in the history of this kind of divertisement Following the engagement of Genee, the world's greatest dancer this week, he announces for the forthcoming week, beginning Monday afternoon, April 10, the world's champion swimmer and diver, Annette Kellerman.

Captain George Anger, giant, actor and author, assisted by Ernest Romel, a Liliputian comedian, and several others, will present Captain Auger's extravagantly costomed original and humorous ballet, "Jack, the Giant Killer."

Fay 2 Coleys and Fay, minstrel folks, will give an act entitled "From Uncle Tom to Vaudeville."

There will of course, be a number of other acts and a motion picture comedy the whole calculated to entertain audiences of all classes.

The Nixon—Pittsburg

The mere announcement of Montgomery and Stone is usually enough to arouse any city to a high degree of anticipatory delight, and the matter of mentioning the name of the play. In the case of their forthcoming engagement at the Nixon Theatre, however, Montgomery and Stone's admirer rather insist upon the fact that George Ade and Gusav Luders have given them an exceptionally good vehicle in "The Old Town," and that in the characters of Archibald Hawkins and Henry Clay Baxeter, they are afforded opportunity for the introduction of much that is novel in singing, dancing and acrobatic incidents.

An old Pittsburg favorite will be welcome in the person of Mr. Melville Stewart, the baritone, especially transferred to "The Old Town" company by Mr. Dillingham for the remainder of the season. The original English pony ballet will introduce some new dance divertisements, and a novel Scotch number, showing the national dances executed to the strain of Highland bag pipes, played by the little dancers themselves.

Matinee preformances are announced for Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

The Alvin—Pittsburg

On Monday, April 10, the brilliant Straus operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier," returns to the Alvin Theatre for a week's stay with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Frederick W. Whitney will send the same organization of singers for the Pittsburg engagement that was previously heard, with the great OperaComique orchestra which adds so greatly to the effectiveness of the performance. The cast with Rena Vivienne and LillianFoli in the character of Nadina, daughter of the Sulgarians; Mildred Roger in the deep toned contralto role; Gene Lunska as Mascha; Harry Fairleigh in the title role of the soldier; Geo. O'Donnell and John Dunsmuire in the unusual boanffe parts, and Geo. Tallman as the pompous Alexius, has been considered the most perfectly balanced singing organization since the first days of the Bostonians, and will long be remembered as a high standard for light opera. Prices, as before will range from $2 to 50c. for the evening and Saturday matinee performances and from $100 to 25c for Wednesday matinee. Mail orders will be given prompt and careful attention.

New Duquesne—Pittsburg.

One of the richest and most elaborate spectacular production to be made in the history of the Harry Davis Stock players—is promised for the Duquesne Theatre next week, when the management is to revive that world famous romance of the Rome of Nero and the early days of Christianity, "Quo Vadis," with exceptional scenic and costume magnificence. The luxurous and profligate Court of Nero, with its revelry and its voluptuous elegance, leads itself rotably to the brush of the artist and the richness of footlight effects. A big electrical storm, which is to be introduced in the last act will be an added novelty of vivid and thrilling stage craft. "Quo Vadis" will thus not only be a highly pictureseque dramatic entertainment, full of famous figures of history, but will be an ideal Holy Week offering, well fitted to the religious spirit of this particular season of the year.

All the historic types of this remarkable era in the history of the world, when Christianity was taking root in the Roman soil of fire and bloodshed, are depicted in this play. The blood-thirsty, cruel Nero, called by many the Anti-Christ, his mistress Poppoea, his favorite Tigellinus, the elegant Petronius the Christians renegade, Chilo Chilondes, the Roman saints and martyrs and the slaves are all put before the foutlights.

Freed His Mind In His Will.

Among curious wills that of a certain Dr. Dunlap, a Canadian, has often been quoted. It probably contained some of the most maliciously expressed bequests on record. To one brother the doctor left his books so that he might learn to read and acquire common sense. To another brother he left his big silver watch that the said brother might know the hour at which men ought to get up of a morning. To his brother-in-law he left his best pipe "in gratitude that he married my sister Maggie, whom no man of taste would ever have taken," and to the eldest son of a friend he left a silver tankard lest if he left it to the friend himself, who was a rabid teetotaler, the latter might melt it down to cast temperance medals. To one of his sisters he left a silver drink cup "for reasons best known to herself;" to another the family Bible, so that she might learn as much of its spirit as she already knew of its letter and become a better Christian, and to his eldest sister a five acre field to console her for being married to a man that she had to henpeck.—Chambers' Journal.

A Pair of Cheerful Liars.

The crowd in the little country store was watching the rain when Deacon Witherspoon remarked that he'd seen it rain about as hard as anybody ever had seen it rain. Somebody said:

"Deacon, how hard did you ever see it rain?"

"Well, sir," said the deacon, "once upon a time, when I was at home, we had an old cider barrel laying out in the yard with both ends out and the bunghole up, and, would you believe it, it rained so hard into that bunghole that water couldn't run out of both ends fast enough, and it swelled up and busted!"

Then Reuben Henry spoke up. He said he'd never seen it rain very hard, but he'd seen some mighty cold weather. Somebody said, "Rube, how cold did you ever see it get?"

He said, "Well, sir, one time when I was living down in Pickaway county, in hog killing time, we had a kettle of boiling water setting on the stove, and we took it out in the yard, and it froze so doggone quick the ice was hot."—National Monthly.

Black Inhabitants of France.

Lying so much off the beaten track, the village of Port Lesne, in the Jura department of France, is visited by but few from the outside world, and consequently this tiny community of men and women of color is but little known. It is not a large village, for its inhabitants number only about a hundred, but every one is either black or copper colored. It owes its origin to the fact that about a century ago the famous negro chief, Toussaint L'Ouverture, was brought from Haiti and imprisoned in Fort de Joux. Many of his friends, all negroes, followed him and encamped near his prison on the bank of the little river Loue. From that encampment grew the village of Port Lesne, and when Toussaint L'Ouverture died more than 100 years ago his friends decided to remain in France. The passing of years and intermarriages have transformed the settlement into a French village of colored folk, all of whom are enfranchised.

Poetry and Pleasure.

The poet writes under one restriction only—namely, the necessity of giving immediate pleasure. Nor let this necessity of producing immediate pleasure be considered as a degradation of the poet's art. It is far otherwise. It is an acknowledgment of the beauty of the universe, an acknowledgment the more sincere because not formal, but indirect; it is a task light and easy to him who looks at the world in the spirit of love. Further, it is a homage paid to the native and naked dignity of man, to the grand elementary principle of pleasure, by which he feels and lives and moves.—William Wordsworth.

You don't have to pay 50c or $1.00 a pint for listerian antiseptics or peroxide. You can make 16 pints of a more cleansing, germicidal, healing and deodorizing antiseptic solution with one 25c box of Paxtine,—a soluble antiseptic powder, obtainable at any drug store.

CARBOLIC ACID.

Peculiar Effect Pure Alcohol Has on This Irritant Poison.

One of the most frequent irritant poisons used for suicidal purposes is carbolic acid, and a more agonizing death could not be selected. Why any one should select this poison it is hard to understand unless on account of the fact that it is cheap and easily obtainable. This form of poisoning can usually be easily recognized by the odor, which is well known, and by the white burns or marks on the lips and mouth, which are typical of carbolic acid poisoning.

Send for the nearest physician, and in the meantime, as carbolic acid kills quickly, the first aid treatment must be prompt in order to get results. If possible cause the patient to vomit by giving an emetic, such as ipecac or salt and water, a tablespoonful to a pint of warm water. This, however, frequently fails to work on account of the irritated condition of the mucous membrane of the stomach. One of the best chemical antidotes is epsom salt in solution. Another good chemical antidote is alcohol, the only trouble with this remedy being that it cannot be given in a pure form. It has to be diluted with water and for that reason loses its efficacy.

Just exactly why alcohol counteracts the effect of carbolic acid is not known, but if, for instance, carbolic acid is splashed on the hands and they are at once immersed in absolute alcohol there will be no resulting burn.—Dr. H. H. Hartung in National Magazine.

ROUTED THE SINGER.

Tosti's Encounter With a Persistent and Peppery Stranger.

"Tosti used to tell an amusing little story of feminine persistence," says Harold Simpson in his book, "A Century of English Ballads." It was during one of his busiest mornings, with a long list of singing lessons to be got through, that a knock came at the door of Tosti's flat. His valet was ill and so Tosti went to the door himself. A lady, a stranger to him, stood on the threshold.

"'Signor Tosti?' she inquired.

"Tosti bowed.

"'Oh,' said the lady, 'I am singing your song, "My Memories," at Manchester tonight, and I want you to kindly run through it with me.'

"'Madame,' answered Tosti politely but firmly, 'I fear it is impossible. I have two pupils with me now, and a third is waiting in the anteroom, while others will shortly be arriving.'

"'But you must!' the lady persisted.

"'I am sorry'— began Tosti again when he suddenly received a violent push backward and the lady walked into the studio.

"Tosti followed, protesting. After a long argument, which threatened to become heated, the lady snapped out:

"'Very well; I shan't sing your song, then!'

"'Madame,' said Tosti, taking her by the hand, 'I am infinitely obliged to you.'

"The lady gave one look at him and fled."

When Lawyers Are Quiet.

One George Wilson, a lawyer, who had much litigation, in some of which he was personally interested as a party or as a trustee, finally passed away, and a short funeral sermon was delivered by a member of the bar in the presence of a few old personal friends. The lawyer told how the old man had been abused and maligned, but that, in fact, he had helped the poor and unfortunate often and was not a bad man.

On returning from the services an old lawyer was asked by another lawyer about the services and what was said. The old lawyer replied, "For once old George could not file a demurrer or motion to any of the proceedings which had taken place."

The lawyer who made the inquiry replied, "Well, this must be the first time George did not move for arrest of judgment."—Green Bag.

A Range of Possibilities.

"I have been told," said the confident performer, "that I make my violin sound like the human voice."

"Yes," replied the candid friend, "but there are so many kinds of human voices."—Washington Star.

Truly Answered.

Boats trading in the Medway in former years rejoiced in rather curious names, and the following was only one of the many amusing incidents resulting from this:

A boat named What's That to You? passing a lockyard at nighttime was hailed as usual by the coast guards man.

"Boat aboy! Your captain's name?"

"Captain X."

"And what are you laden with?"

"Coals."

"Where bound for?"

"Chatham."

"Ship's name?"

"What's That to You?"

"I asked you the name of the ship."

"What's That to You?"

"You shall be reported for your insolence!" roared the coast guardsman. Again he put the question, and, receiving the same reply, the boat was commanded to remain where she was.

In the morning two boats were seen keeping guard. The officials, as they boarded the vessel with full authority to seize the offenders, observed for the first time the name painted in large letters. Amid the laughter and jeers of the crew of the What's That to You? they pulled moodily away.—London Telegraph.

Political Passions of 1844.

There were elements of picturesqueness and drama in the politics of the before the war time which are lacking nowadays. Marion Harland tells in her autobiography of a Whig rally which makes the political meetings of today seem tame, cut and dried affairs. It was in 1844, the year of Clay's defeat, and feeling ran high. At that particular time John Tyler was perhaps the most unpopular man in the Union. In the progress of his review of national affairs the orator at last came to the hated name. Instantly uprose the majestic figure of Captain Cock the local eccentric, clad in the scarlet English hunting coat he invariably wore. "The Lord have mercy upon the nation!" he cried, his voice solemn with wrath and sonorous with the mint juleps for which the Bell was noted. "Fellow citizens, I always cry to high heaven for mercy upon this country when John Tyler's name is mentioned! Amen and amen!"

Jury Penalties.

Nowadays no penalty is enforced when the twelve men chosen to form the jury are unable to agree upon a verdict. Formerly, however, a refractory juryman was committed to prison and the verdict of the eleven was taken. In the reign of King Edward III. the judges decided that a verdict given by a majority was a nullity and recommended that the judges should carry the jury about with them in a cart till they should agree. The old custom that jurors should fast until they had agreed in their verdict prevailed long, but was mercifully relaxed somewhat in Tudor times, and during Queen Elizabeth's reign a banquet was usually given to the jury by the successful party to a suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference unless he waits for results?

THE CHARLEROI MAIL

Entered second class mail at Charleroi, June 15, 1900. according to Act of Congress of March 8, 1879

VOL. XI. NO. 207. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1911 One Cent

BOULEVARD PROPOSED FROM PITTSBURG TO UNIONTOWN

Important Highway Projected in Sproul Road Bill

THE ROUTE OUTLINED

Assumed That it Will Strike the National Pike at Brownsville

In spite of our indifference and lack of effort as well as the same condition in the part of our neighbors affected we are likely to get the river boulevard for which the Mail has been agitating for some time. By the addition of 74 new routes to the original 203 of the Sproul main highway bill which has been reported favorably to the Senate, a route from Pittsburg to Uniontown by way of Charleroi is projected. Those in charge of the bill realized more fully the importance of this route than we did ourselves.

While the location of the projected river route is not exactly known it is reasonable to assume that it will connect the important towns along the river and strike the old National Pike at Brownsville. This passes through what is perhaps the most populous industrial and picturesque route in the State, and its importance can be realized at a glance of the territory to be traversed

It is stated that the Sproul bill is slated to pass and becomes a law The addition of the route from Pittsburg to Uniontown is a most important one, and if it stands will be of inestimable benefit to this community

Primary To Be In September

County Commissioners Saved Work and County Expense By Act

County and municipal politics will be held in abeyance by the new primary law that was put through the House and Senate this week and promptly signed by Governor Tener. This fixes the date of the election for county and municipal primaries the last Saturday in September in the odd numbered years Had not this law been enacted and signed at this particular time, the county commissioners would have to issue advertisements for the primary election in June

WILL MAKE EXTENSIVE ADDITIONS

Bell Telephone Company Expanding Locally

RENT NEW FLOOR SPACE

To secure room for extensive improvements and additions about to be made by the C. D. and P. Telephone company, the entire second floor of the Charleroi Savings and Trust company has been leased, and on May 1 the telephone company will take possession.

Many alterations will be made in the arrangement of the second floor in order to establish suitable quarters for the installation of the new common battery system which is to be of the latest Western Electric type. The equipment will consist of 15 positions, or operating boards, and there will be 2,000 lines provided. This equipment is no being manufactured and is scheduled for shipment about August 1. Immediately upon its arrival work will commence in the installation of the new system, which it will take about 10 to 12 weeks to complete.

Owing to the entire floor being needed for the exchange equipment the business officers of the commerce, plant and traffic departments will be located elsewhere in town.

He graduated from the Warren High School and then started out to make his own way, finally landing in Donora, shortly after he had been married at Brownsville.

The father had meanwille been investigating and learning his son's address wrote to him Mr. Tunstall is now preparing to take his right name His father is expected in Donora within a few days The young man holds a responsible position at the American Steel and Wire mill.

WANT BARS CLOSED ON HOLIDAY

Arguments for and Against Heard by Judge Taylor

DECISION COMING LATER

Before Judge J. F. Taylor yesterday was heard the argument upon the petition of the Ministerial Association of Monongahela, the G. A R. of that place, and others to have the court make an order requiring licensed bars to keep closed in this county on the five legal holidays, viz: New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Thanksgivng Day and Christmas Day.

The argument was unusual from the fact that the court opened its doors and gave permission to laymen, not supposed to be learned in the law to present their side of the case. Rev. M. M. Allbeck, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church of Monongahela, chairman of the committee, of the Ministerial Association, was the spokeman for the committee. Captain James B. Gibson made a few remarks in behalf of the G. A. R.

Attorney W. K Vance of the law firm of McIlvain, Vance and Gibson of Monongahela, appeared in behalf of the Monongahela liquor dealers and other dealers who are clients of the law firm. Attorney D. M. McCloskey of Charleroi appeared for the Charleroi and Donora hotel men and other dealers.

Two Yet to be Recovered From Ill-Fated Laughlin

ALSO DRAGGING RIVER

Work Continues Today Under Direction of Captain Warren Elsey

Strenuous efforts are being made today by a crew of men under the supervision of Captain Warren Elsey, to recover the bodies of the man and the woman who are supposed to be still imprisoned in the sunken Harry A. Laughlin at Allenport. Research was taken to dynamite yesterday and the upper deck of the boat was dynamited in an effort to locate the two bodies This is being continued today, and the river is being dragged in the vicinity. If the bodies are not in the boat it is not thought they will ever be recovered, owing to the strong current.

It was not entirely due to the high wind that the boat was overturned Thursday night. Captain Thomas Cocain stated yesterday afternoon, in explaining the occurrence that he had taken a supply of coal at the tipple of the Vesta Coal company's mine and had turned the boat toward the middle to resume his way up the river with the empty barge the Laughlin had in tow Owing to the heavy wind Captain Cocain gave a signal to the engineer in reverse the boat to avoid upsetting. The current was exceptionally strong and between it and the high gale of wind which at this juncture struck the boat it was capsized.

The two bodies not recovered are Raymond McFadden, the fireman, and Mrs. Mary Lawrence, the chambermaid. Miss Effie Hughes, whose body was recovered yesterday, was the sole support of her mother who lives at Point Marion. Mrs. Lawrence was a widow, and leaves two sons and five daughters.

The Laughlin now rests on its side about 50 feet from the shore near Vesta Until yesterday it occupied a position directly upside down, but later turned. About 30 tons of coal were lost when the boat overturned. The most valuable articles are being removed from the wreckage by river men, and the boat will likely be raised, although it will not be put in active service again by the Jones and Laughlin company.

Fighting the Bill

All talk by the opponents of the State administration that the Public Utilities Commission bill that Governor Tener has caused to be drawn up and presented in the Legislature is a fake measure is dispelled by the attitude of the corporations affected. The far reaching provisions of the bill have resulted already in requests from a large number of corporations to be heard on the measure, and it is stated that the most notable array of corporation counsel that ever appeared on capitol hill will be on hand to object to some of the provisions of the bill. This clearly indicates that the measure has "teeth."

The measure is a necessity and should become a law. Gradually, in the review of the rights of man, the public is realizing that the people do not have to put up with "all the traffic will stand," on the arbitrary say-so of public corporations. A commission, like the proposed body, to which the people can appeal when they have a grievance, is a necessity, and other States have already created these bodies with power to act. Governor Tener's measure covers the situation most effectually, and every community will be benefitted by its provisions.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The story of the Scotchman who one time went aboard a British battleship and sent word to the captain below that one of the owners of the vessel wanted to see him, finds its counterpart in an old Civil War veteran out near Beallsville, who visited Washington, D. C. recently. The old fellow was recounting his experiences after his return to his neighbors around the store fire, how he had visited the National Museum, gone up in the Washington monument, looked over the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and the various other attractions of the National capital.

"Do they charge anything, John, for seeing those things?" asked a neighbor, who was deeply interested.

"No, by gum!" was the response, "them things down there belong to we'uns, and I was just looking over my share."

"Here's something I wish you would print," said J. D. Berryman of the department store of J. W. Berryman and Son. "If lots of young fellows I know would profit by this advice, they would arrive at the goal of success by safe and sure methods."

This is the item, clipped from a Youngstown, Ohio, paper:

"The Marion Star remarks that the reason why the mule continues to advance in value despite the advent of the bizz-wagon may be that he does his work faithfully and well and doesn't pretend to be above it. Many a fellow can study the case of the mule with profit to himself. There's too much of the disposition to be above the work one finds to do. The young man about to start out in the world to make his way shows only the one characteristic trait of the mule to kick, but none of the mule's patience to drag any kind of a load. The trouble is the wants to begin right up where his dad has climbed through long years of patient toil. He is not content to begin where opportunity offers and by patiently and persistently working and showing himself worthily advance step by step. These fellows who go up like a rocket usually come tumbling down like a stick.'"

THE TRUE TEST

Tried in Charleroi, it Has Stood the Test

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Charleroi. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

Mrs. Charles Bromwich, 714 Washington Avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "About two years ago I had a severe attack of kidney disease and suffered a great deal from pains in the small of my back. I was also subject to headaches and a feeling of languor, and although I tried a number of remedies, I was not helped. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me and deciding to try them, I procured a box at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. In a few days after using this remedy, I felt a great deal better and before long a complete cure was effected. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement." Statement given September 3, 1907.

CURED PERMANENTLY.

On November 6, 1909, Mrs. Bromwich said: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as when I gave a public statement in their favor two years ago. The cure this remedy effected has been permanent."

Marvelous Antiseptic that Draws Glass, Wood and Needles from the Flesh

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in emergencies such as bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it kills the pain instantly. It's a medicine chest in itself—a little family physician that is ever in demand. 25c and 50c a jar at W. F. Henning's.

AMONG THE THEATRES

The Palace—Charleroi.

A production that was at once educational and thrilling was shown at the Palace Theatre this week. These were the scenes depicted during the two years explorations in the Antarctic by Dr. Charcot, the eminent French explorer. Wonderful pictures of the frozen region showed realistic views of this unknown region. Other strong features were "A Brother's Redemption," "The Warrant for Red Rube," "Jim the Mule Boy," "Love Under Difficulties," and others. A duet by Louis Brusa and John Evens, "Dear Old Ma," with special scenic and electrical effects, made a great hit.

The Grand—Pittsburg

Momentous vaudeville events are now occurring in quick succession at the Grand where Manager Harry Davis is booking shows unexampled in the history of this kind of divertisement Following the engagement of Genee, the world's greatest dancer this week, he announces for the forthcoming week, beginning Monday afternoon, April 10, the world's champion swimmer and diver, Annette Kellerman.

Captain George Anger, giant, actor and author, assisted by Ernest Romel, a Liliputian comedian, and several others, will present Captain Auger's extravagantly costomed original and humorous ballet, "Jack, the Giant Killer."

Fay 2 Coleys and Fay, minstrel folks, will give an act entitled "From Uncle Tom to Vaudeville."

There will of course, be a number of other acts and a motion picture comedy the whole calculated to entertain audiences of all classes.

The Nixon—Pittsburg

The mere announcement of Montgomery and Stone is usually enough to arouse any city to a high degree of anticipatory delight, and the matter of mentioning the name of the play. In the case of their forthcoming engagement at the Nixon Theatre, however, Montgomery and Stone's admirer rather insist upon the fact that George Ade and Gusav Luders have given them an exceptionally good vehicle in "The Old Town," and that in the characters of Archibald Hawkins and Henry Clay Baxeter, they are afforded opportunity for the introduction of much that is novel in singing, dancing and acrobatic incidents.

An old Pittsburg favorite will be welcome in the person of Mr. Melville Stewart, the baritone, especially transferred to "The Old Town" company by Mr. Dillingham for the remainder of the season. The original English pony ballet will introduce some new dance divertisements, and a novel Scotch number, showing the national dances executed to the strain of Highland bag pipes, played by the little dancers themselves.

Matinee preformances are announced for Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

The Alvin—Pittsburg

On Monday, April 10, the brilliant Straus operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier," returns to the Alvin Theatre for a week's stay with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Frederick W. Whitney will send the same organization of singers for the Pittsburg engagement that was previously heard, with the great OperaComique orchestra which adds so greatly to the effectiveness of the performance. The cast with Rena Vivienne and LillianFoli in the character of Nadina, daughter of the Sulgarians; Mildred Roger in the deep toned contralto role; Gene Luneska as Mascha; Harry Fairleigh in the title role of the soldier; Geo. O'Donnell and John Dunsmuire in the unusual boanffe parts, and Geo. Tallman as the pompous Alexius, has been considered the most perfectly balanced singing organization since the first days of the Bostonians, and will long be remembered as a high standard for light opera. Prices, as before will range from $2 to 50c. for the evening and Saturday matinee performances and from $100 to 25c for Wednesday matinee. Mail orders will be given prompt and careful attention.

New Duquesne—Pittsburg.

One of the richest and most elaborate spectacular production to be made in the history of the Harry Davis Stock players is promised for the Duquesne Theatre next week, when the management is to revive that world famous romance of the Rome of Nero and the early days of Christianity, "Quo Vadis," with exceptional scenic and costume magnificence. The luxurous and profligate Court of Nero, with its revelry and its voluptuous elegance, leads itself notably to the brush of the artist and the richness of footlight effects. A big electrical storm, which is to be introduced in the last act will be an added novelty of vivid and thrilling stage craft. "Quo Vadis" will thus not only be a highly picturesque dramatic entertainment, full of famous figures of history, but will be an ideal Holy Week offering, well fitted to the religious spirit of this particular season of the year.

All the historic types of this remarkable era in the history of the world, when Christianity was taking root in the Roman soil of fire and bloodshed, are depicted in this play. The blood-thirsty, cruel Nero, called by many the Anti-Christ, his mistress Poppoea, his favorite Tigellinus, the elegant Petronius the Christians renegade, Chilo Chilondes, the Roman saints and martyrs and the slaves are all put before the footlights.

Freed His Mind in His Will.

Among curious wills that of a certain Dr. Dunlap, a Canadian, has often been quoted. It probably contained some of the most maliciously expressed bequests on record. To one brother the doctor left his books so that he might learn to read and acquire common sense. To another brother he left his big silver watch that the said brother might know the hour at which men ought to get up of a morning. To his brother-in-law he left his best pipe "in gratitude that he married my sister Maggie, whom no man of taste would ever have taken," and to the eldest son of a friend he left a silver tankard lest if he left it to the friend himself, who was a rabid teetotaler, the latter might melt it down to cast temperance medals. To one of his sisters he left a silver drink cup "for reasons best known to herself;" to another the family Bible, so that she might learn as much of its spirit as she already knew of its letter and become a better Christian, and to his eldest sister a five acre field to console her for being married to a man that she had to henpeck.—Chambers' Journal.

A Pair of Cheerful Liars.

The crowd in the little country store was watching the rain when Deacon Witherspoon remarked that he'd seen it rain about as hard as anybody ever had seen it rain. Somebody said:

"Deacon, how hard did you ever see it rain?"

"Well, sir," said the deacon, "once upon a time, when I was at home, we had an old cider barrel laying out in the yard with both ends out and the bunghole up, and, would you believe it, it rained so hard into that bunghole that water couldn't run out of both ends fast enough, and it swelled up and busted!"

Then Reuben Henry spoke up. He said he'd never seen it rain very hard, but he'd seen some mighty cold weather. Somebody said, "Rube, how cold did you ever see it get?"

He said, "Well, sir, one time when I was living down in Pickaway county, in hog killing time, we had a kettle of boiling water setting on the stove, and we took it out in the yard, and it froze so doggone quick the ice was hot."—National Monthly.

Black Inhabitants of France.

Lying so much off the beaten track, the village of Port Lesne, in the Jura department of France, is visited by but few from the outside world, and consequently this tiny community of men and women of color is but little known. It is not a large village, for its inhabitants number only about a hundred, but every one is either black or copper colored. It owes its origin to the fact that about a century ago the famous negro chief, Toussaint L'Ouverture, was brought from Haiti and imprisoned in Fort de Joux. Many of his friends, all negroes, followed him and encamped near his prison on the bank of the little river Loue. From that encampment grew the village of Port Lesne, and when Toussaint L'Ouverture died more than 100 years ago his friends decided to remain in France. The passing of years and intermarriages have transformed the settlement into a French village of colored folk, all of whom are enfranchised.

Poetry and Pleasure.

The poet writes under one restriction only—namely, the necessity of giving immediate pleasure. Nor let this necessity of producing immediate pleasure be considered as a degradation of the poet's art. It is far otherwise. It is an acknowledgment of the beauty of the universe, an acknowledgment the more sincere because not formal, but indirect; it is a task light and easy to him who looks at the world in the spirit of love. Further, it is a homage paid to the native and naked dignity of man, to the grand elementary principle of pleasure, by which he feels and lives and moves.—William Wordsworth.

CARBOLIC ACID.

Peculiar Effect Pure Alcohol Has on This Irritant Poison.

One of the most frequent irritant poisons used for suicidal purposes is carbolic acid, and a more agonizing death could not be selected. Why any one should select this poison it is hard to understand unless on account of the fact that it is cheap and easily obtainable. This form of poisoning can usually be easily recognized by the odor, which is well known, and by the white burns or marks on the lips and mouth, which are typical of carbolic acid poisoning.

Send for the nearest physician, and in the meantime, as carbolic acid kills quickly, the first aid treatment must be prompt in order to get results. If possible cause the patient to vomit by giving an emetic, such as ipecac or salt and water, a tablespoonful to a pint of warm water. This, however, frequently fails to work on account of the irritated condition of the mucous membrane of the stomach. One of the best chemical antidotes is epsom salt in solution. Another good chemical antidote is alcohol, the only trouble with this remedy being that it cannot be given in a pure form. It has to be diluted with water and for that reason loses its efficacy.

Just exactly why alcohol counteracts the effect of carbolic acid is not known, but if, for instance, carbolic acid is splashed on the hands and they are at once immersed in absolute alcohol there will be no resulting burn.—Dr. H. H. Hartung in National Magazine.

ROUTED THE SINGER.

Tosti's Encounter With a Persistent and Peppery Stranger.

"Tosti used to tell an amusing little story of feminine persistence," says Harold Simpson in his book, "A Century of English Ballads." It was during one of his busiest mornings, with a long list of singing lessons to be got through, that a knock came at the door of Tosti's flat. His valet was ill and so Tosti went to the door himself. A lady, a stranger to him, stood on the threshold.

"'Signor Tosti?' she inquired.

"Tosti bowed.

"'Oh,' said the lady, 'I am singing your song, "My Memories," at Manchester tonight, and I want you to kindly run through it with me.'

"'Madame,' answered Tosti politely but firmly, 'I fear it is impossible. I have two pupils with me now, and a third is waiting in the anteroom, while others will shortly be arriving.'

"'But you must!' the lady persisted.

"'I am sorry'— began Tosti again when he suddenly received a violent push backward and the lady walked into the studio.

"Tosti followed, protesting. After a long argument, which threatened to become heated, the lady snapped out:

"'Very well; I shan't sing your song, then!'

"'Madame,' said Tosti, taking her by the hand, 'I am infinitely obliged to you.'

"The lady gave one look at him and fled."

When Lawyers Are Quiet.

One George Wilson, a lawyer, who had much litigation, in some of which he was personally interested as a party or as a trustee, finally passed away, and a short funeral sermon was delivered by a member of the bar in the presence of a few old personal friends. The lawyer told how the old man had been abused and maligned, but that, in fact, he had helped the poor and unfortunate often and was not a bad man.

On returning from the services an old lawyer was asked by another lawyer about the services and what was said. The old lawyer replied, "For once old George could not file a demurrer or motion to any of the proceedings which had taken place."

The lawyer who made the inquiry replied, "Well, this must be the first time George did not move for arrest of judgment."—Green Bag.

A Range of Possibilities.

"I have been told," said the confident performer, "that I make my violin sound like the human voice."

"Yes," replied the candid friend, "but there are so many kinds of human voices."—Washington Star.

Truly Answered.

Boats trading in the Medway in former years rejoiced in rather curious names, and the following was only one of the many amusing incidents resulting from this:

A boat named What's That to You? passing a lockyard at nighttime was hailed as usual by the coast guardsman.

"Boat ahoy! Your captain's name?"

"Captain X."

"And what are you laden with?"

"Coals."

"Where bound for?"

"Chatham."

"Ship's name?"

"What's That to You?"

"I asked you the name of the ship."

"What's That to You?"

"You shall be reported for your insolence!" roared the coast guardsman. Again he put the question, and, receiving the same reply, the boat was commanded to remain where she was.

In the morning two boats were seen keeping guard. The officials, as they boarded the vessel with full authority to seize the offenders, observed for the first time the name painted in large letters. Amid the laughter and jeers of the crew of the What's That to You? they pulled moodily away.—London Telegraph.

Political Passions of 1844.

There were elements of picturesqueness and drama in the politics of the before the war time which are lacking nowadays. Marion Harland tells in her autobiography of a Whig rally which makes the political meetings of today seem tame, cut and dried affairs. It was in 1844, the year of Clay's defeat, and feeling ran high. At that particular time John Tyler was perhaps the most unpopular man in the Union. In the progress of his review of national affairs the orator at last came to the hated name. Instantly uprose the majestic figure of Captain Cook, the local eccentric, clad in the scarlet English hunting coat he invariably wore. "The Lord have mercy upon the nation!" he cried, his voice solemn with wrath and sonorous with the mint juleps for which the Bell was noted. "Fellow citizens, I always cry to high heaven for mercy upon this country when John Tyler's name is mentioned! Amen and amen!"

A Hiccough Cure.

A correspondent writes to us to the effect that he has found hanging by the hands with the legs clear of the ground, the hands well apart and the breath held for say fifteen seconds, an infallible cure for hiccoughs. With children, hold them up off the ground by both hands. Our correspondent states that he has never found this method to fail.—London Globe.

Prosaic.

They began their honeymoon trip in the day coach.

"Darling," he murmured, "I can see the coals of love in your eyes."

"Them ain't coals, Jonathan," she said; "them's cinders."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Jury Penalties.

Nowadays no penalty is enforced when the twelve men chosen to form the jury are unable to agree upon a verdict. Formerly, however, a refractory juryman was committed to prison and the verdict of the eleven was taken. In the reign of King Edward III. the judges decided that a verdict given by a majority was a nullity and recommended that the judges should carry the jury about with them in a cart till they should agree. The old custom that jurors should fast until they had agreed in their verdict prevailed long, but was mercifully relaxed somewhat in Tudor times, and during Queen Elizabeth's reign a banquet was usually given to the jury by the successful party to a suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Science and Cheese.

A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference unless he waits for results?

There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer.
